Costs & Finances

The Cost for attending is SEK 135'000,-

This Cost covers:

- ▶ The Program, Courses, Course Materials, Evening Activities
- ▶ Meals (Breakfast, Lunch and Dinner from Monday to Friday when on campus excl. holidays)
- ▶ Accommodation (typically twin-share bedrooms in Sweden)
- ▶ Travel to and from the Outpost as well as the Internship
- ▶ Local transportation (in connection with the curriculum)

Meals

The Program Cost includes Breakfast, Lunch and Dinner from Monday through Friday whilst in Sweden and on Outpost. Meals are freshly prepared, using organic, biodynamic, and local produce and ingredients. By default participants are responsible for providing their weekend meals. The program will ensure basic cooking facilities where these can be prepared. The cost for meals covers the course-weeks of the program and does not include personal , travel, time spent off campus or holiday periods. There will be no refund given for meals skipped or missed.

Accommodation

The Program Cost includes the use of a single-sex twin shared bedroom or a gender inclusive twin shared bedroom in one of the Student Houses at Kulturcentrum Järna in Sweden. Further facilities like kitchens and bathrooms are shared with other participants.

The accommodation during the Outpost and/or Internship is dependent on the individual design of each location and Internship.

Room deposit

A room deposit of SEK 1'000,- is to be paid in cash upon arrival in Sweden to the administration of the program. This deposit is not covered by the program costs and will be refunded at the end of YIP provided the room you occupied whilst in Sweden is left clean, undamaged and in good condition. The deposit may be paid in your own currency at the current rate of conversion which may support you at the end of the program when you receive the room deposit back before departure.

Social conduct

YIP does not allow or tolerate physical violence in any form. Participants may not promote violence against or directly attack or threaten other people.

YIP encourages clear, concise, truthful, respectful and responsible communication. Participants are encouraged to express themselves with clarity, compassion, self-responsibility, respect, empathy, transparency and the common good in mind.

Participants are expected to be self-reliant regarding their physical, emotional and mental well-being. If this cannot be upheld then the participant is responsible for accessing the necessary professional support. If this is not achieved, the team reserves the right to contact the emergency contact (as provided on the initial application page by the participant).

YIP and its staff will try to assist each participant in their individual learning and personal needs whenever possible, however the educational mission, group activities and course sessions, and the needs of the collective will be given precedence over personal needs.

Attendance and certification

For each hosted course week the participant receives a course specific certificate (presented as a portfolio at the end of the Program). In addition, at the end of the Program, the participant receives a Certificate of Completion.

Regular attendance is a fundamental requirement for participation in this program. Participants must attend at least 80% of each weekly course and of each of the four modules of the program (Sweden Autumn, Outpost, Internship, Sweden Spring).

Attendance is not merely a formality—it is essential to the integrity of the learning experience, active engagement, and cohort-based activities. Failure to meet the 80% attendance threshold in any single module will result in ineligibility for the final Certificate of Completion. Additionally, excessive absences - defined as missing more than 20% of any given module - may lead to dismissal from the program or a mandatory review meeting with the Organizing Team to assess continued participation.

Termination

If a participant fails to follow the social conduct cited above or their behaviour otherwise interferes with the running and operation of the program and campus life, measures may be taken, at the discretion of YIP, up to and including immediate termination from the program.

YIP may terminate a participant from the program and facilities at any time if the organising team deem their behaviour to be negatively impacting other participants, team members or the smooth running of the program or if they deem the participant to be a risk to themselves or others.

YIP may, but is not obligated to, engage in conversation and dialogue regarding participant behaviour prior to terminating any participant from the program.

Ultimately the responsibility to assess the above lies with the Organising Team. Any terminated participant has the right of appeal to the board.

The following actions will result in immediate termination from the program; violence in any form; sexual violence in any form; theft of property; possession, manufacturing, sale, distribution, use or being under the influence of illegal drugs during the program; abuse of or attendance under the influence of alcohol during course hours; possession of a weapon; physical fights; inexcusable neglect of duty; unauthorised dissemination of confidential information.

Educational Freedom

YIP seeks intellectual variety among its contributors with respect to academic discipline and creative art, political and social thought, and philosophical or religious perspective. Maintaining a community environment of genuine educational freedom and respect for ideas and persons is essential to the purposes of the program and community.

Educational freedom applies to both research and teaching. Freedom in research is fundamental to the advancement of truth. Educational freedom is fundamental for protecting the rights of the contributor in teaching and of the participant to freedom in learning.

These freedoms include that;

- ▶ Contributors are entitled to freedom of speech in the classroom and community. Education at YIP is based to a large extent on dialog and discussions that may or may not remain within the confines of the classroom. The type of discussion and dialog that explore the programs ultimate purposes of societal entrepreneurship and service to humanity cannot be subjected to disciplinary or subject-centred restraint for fear of controversy or offence. Controversy, and even offence, is sometimes at the heart of both free academic inquiry and education. However, contributors should make every effort to be civil and respectful of others' views at all times.
- ▶ Contributors and organisers are citizens, members of a learned profession, and/or staff members of an educational institution. When they speak or write as citizens, they should be free from institutional censorship or discipline, but their special position in the community imposes special obligations. As educational staff members, they should remember that the public may judge their profession and their institution by their utterances. Contributors and organisers are entitled to participate as citizens in public forums without fear of discipline or restraint, so long as it is clear that they are not speaking for the YIP.

Internship

A limited portion of the overall YIP budget is set aside for the travel expenses to and from the Internship. Any additional costs to cover room and board whilst on the Internship will need to be fundraised or covered by the Participant.

Some Participants might be limited as to which countries they can travel to, due to visa restrictions relating to their nationality.

The Participant is expected to join all the internship sessions in the YIP curriculum as preparation for the Internship. When an internship session was missed, it is the responsibility of the Participant to ensure that they brief themselves about the content and information that was missed. At least 80% of the internship sessions have to be attended in order to be able to go on Internship.

The Internship Host Organisation agrees to hosting the participants during the Internship. They are available for a pre-departure call prior to the Internship with the YIP Organising Team and participants and for a review call after the Internship with the YIP Organising Team. The Internship Host carries no further responsibility.

Participation in the Outpost and Internship is conditional on signing a Liability Release Form before departure.

The YIP Organising Team reserves the right to require the Participant's withdrawal from the Outpost and/or Internship before departure or during the Outpost and/or Internship time, if they judge that continuation would be irresponsible, either to the wellbeing of the Participant, others, the Outpost host, the Internship or YIP, as well as due to extenuated circumstances beyond YIP's control (eg. COVID-19 restrictions etc.).

Passport

Participation is conditional on bringing a passport that is valid for at least the entire duration of the program.

At the start of the program, participants will be asked to provide a copy of their valid passport to be kept in the YIP office. This copy will be kept for the duration of the program as a safeguard for unforeseen emergencies where identification is required.

(In case you need a visa for any of the countries visited during YIP, please check the requirements of your travel document relating to that visa. In some cases, the document (passport) needs to be valid for at least 3-6 months after you are due to leave.)

Please note: The European ID card is not sufficient for traveling abroad during the Outpost and/or the Internship.

- ▶ YIP may use the above-mentioned artistic or literary works (if made available to YIP in physical or digital form) for the purpose of promoting YIP free of charge. Participants must request in writing if specific works should be excluded from this use. Excluded from this use are also any documents which (if published) would be a breach of Swedish law or infringing upon the privacy, integrity or wellbeing of the Participant or others.
- ▶ For works produced by Participants specifically for YIP's use upon YIP's request (such as Public Lecture recordings, promotional videos and published products thereof), YIP retains the ownership and right to commercial use.

What is expected of you as a part of the YIP Community?

The success of YIP relies on the mutual commitment of everyone involved. The YIP staff commits to high quality content for the program, creating a personalised positive learning experience, and securing effective use of financial resources.

As a participant your commitment includes attending the program in full, paying costs of tuition and acting responsibly in any of the roles you may take on during YIP.

As the name suggests, YIP is about initiative, not about sitting back and consuming what is prepared for you by the program. YIP is about each person working with, and taking on their initiative in a responsible way, not just for themselves, but also being conscious of others and the effects of their words and actions. Only active involvement from all parties will make YIP a healthy and productive learning experience. In order to gain a real sense of community and with the effect of keeping costs for participation low, everyone (Staff and Participants) is asked to contribute time and work to help the functioning of daily life at YIP.

Communication

Your acceptance of these terms includes your agreement to the terms and condition from <https://www.brevo.com>. brevo.com is the service provider through which YIP communicates its automated emails and newsletters. <https://www.brevo.com/legal/termsofuse/>

In addition you authorise YIP to share your personal email address with the cohort of the respective year.

Visas

The agreement to take part in YIP is conditional upon the Participant obtaining the appropriate Visa or Permit to enable him/her/them to be in Sweden and any other country that the program might visit. Admission to the program does not guarantee that the Participant will be issued with the appropriate visa or permit. The Participant is responsible for complying with all conditions relating to the visa or permit. The Participant is responsible for providing a copy of the visa or permit to the YIP office at the beginning of the Program.

If the Participant fails to obtain or maintain a valid visa or permit or is required to leave Sweden or any other country that the program might visit for whatever reason, this agreement will lapse and YIP may offer the place of enrolment to another person. If this agreement lapses in this way, the refund policy that applies to choosing to leave YIP before the end of the course is in order, and the Participant may be entitled to a refund.

Please note: At the bottom of this agreement you find some information regarding visas.

Healthcare

Whilst the program and its staff offer a variety of care structures and mentor arrangements to support Participants during their learning at YIP, it also recognises its limits in handling and supporting more substantial physical and/or mental health challenges and emergencies.

Only medical professionals can make a formal diagnosis of a physical or mental health condition and deliver the required treatment. Participants are therefore required to seek such professional advice and/or diagnosis in the case of physical and/or mental distress.

YIP is not legally obliged to offer medical care or counselling. There is no automatic right of a participant to access counselling for physical or psychological health problems within the program.

Participation is conditional on the Participant maintaining and/or managing any required professional medical or psychological support and treatment as well as its related costs to ensure the participants ability to carry out normal day-to-day activities, attend classes, remain respectful in relationship, and live in any shared residency during the program.

In the case of behaviour and events resulting from the failure to engage, maintain or sustain the needed professional and/or medical support ensuring the participants ability to carry out normal day-to-day activities, attend classes, remain respectful in relationship, and live in any shared residency during the program, or that puts the staff or organisation in danger of over-stretching the educational and/or professional mandate, YIP reserves the right to terminate participation in the program.

Health- and Travel-Insurance

Participation is conditional upon the Participant obtaining and maintaining the appropriate health and travel insurance for the duration of the program. This includes the period of the Outpost and the Internship. Admission to the program does not guarantee that the Participant will be covered for any costs related to health or travel. The Participant is responsible for complying with all conditions relating to the health and travel insurance. The Participant is responsible for providing a copy of the health and travel insurance policies to the YIP office at the beginning of the Program.
